Rotary Grows to Phenomenal Size

(Ed. Note—This is the fifth in a series of articles on the Rotary International. It tells how Rotary grew from 750 clubs with 50,000 members, in 1920, to 3,300 clubs with 150,000 members.)

Another country in the Orient and the first in Continental Europe welcomed Rotary during 1920 when the Rotary Clubs of Tokyo, Japan and Madrid, Spain, were organized.

When the eleventh annual convention was held in Atlantic City, New Jersey, 25 Rotarians and their wives were present from Britain and Ireland, the largest delegation from these islands that had ever attended any Rotary convention.

They brought an invitation to hold the 1921 convention in Edinburgh, Scotland, which was enthusiastically accepted.

At the convention, a "hospitality hut" was established to provide information and entertainment for those present. This was the forerunner of the "House of Friendship" which has been so popular at succeeding conventions.

1921

This year saw Rotary enter seven additional countries—The Union of South Africa at Johannesburg, Australia at Melbourne, New Zealand at Wellington and Auckland, France at Paris, Mexico City, Peru at Lima and Denmark at Copenhagen.

The twelfth annual convention—the first to be held outside North America—met at Edinburgh, Scotland with an attendance of 2,302, representing 746 clubs.

Adopt Peace Objective
Through the early years of Rotary, the thought frequently had been advanced that Rotary might well be a medium for the advancement of international peace and good will. At the Edinburgh convention, this objective was formally adopted: "To aid in the advancement of international peace and good will through a fellowship of business and professional men of all nations, united in the Rotary Idea of Service."

At the thirteenth annual convention in Los Angeles, the name of the organization was shortened from the International Association of Rotary Clubs to Rotary International.

Add "Model Code"
During 1923, the movement was inaugurated to encourage members to have their business and craft associations adopt codes of standards of practice based upon a model code suggested by Rotary.

The 14th annual convention at St. Louis, Mo., had the distinction of being the first Rotary convention to be addressed by a President of the United States—Warren G. Harding, honorary member of the club in Washington, D. C. In 1925, a continental European office of the Secretariat of Rotary was established at Zurich, Switzerland, to give better service to the clubs in Europe.

The 200th Rotary Club was organized at Ketchikan, Alaska.

Regional Meeting Held

In 1926 it was felt that, in addition to the annual international conventions, regional conferences should be organized at which Rotarians from certain regions would meet, get acquainted and discuss problems pertaining to their particular regions. Thus, more than 400 Rotarians from eight countries bordering on the Pacific Ocean met in Honolulu in a Pacific Rotary conference which led to the holding of other regional conferences.

In 1928, James W. Davidson of Calgary, Canada, began a trip around the world which was destined to bring Rotary to many new lands. Discomforts, illnesses, accidents and other discouragements failed to dampen the ardor of this enthusiastic man. As a result, Rotary was to become more truly worldwide.

In July, 1930, there were 3,349 clubs with an approximate membership of 153,000.

A Glance Forward

During the years since 1930, Rotary has continued its phenomenal growth throughout the world. Its membership figure reached 365,000 in 1953.

Statistics of Rotary's tremendous worldwide growth are impressive, but Rotary's accomplishments through the years defy expression in figures. The fellowship created, the improvement in the conduct of business and professions, the playgrounds provided, the crippled children helped, the student loans granted, the community betterment undertakings, the increased understanding among nations, and the activities of the Rotary Foundation all must be considered when viewing the progress of Rotary.

And what of tomorrow? Paul Harris, in his last anniversary message, said these striking words:

"I would like to think that the pioneering days of Rotary have only just begun. What's 40 years in the life of a great movement? There are just as many new things to be done as ever there were. Rotary must certainly continue to pioneer or be left in the rear of progress."

"Rotary came up the hard way, through the work of self-sacrificing men who gave of themselves unsparringly. Now it continues on its miracle-working way. More power, more power to you, my beloved Rotary."

"TOBY'S GOING TO HAVE A NEW HOME, TOO"

Yes, even dogs are happy about that home of their own... and having pets and a place to play are added advantages of home-ownership. Our business is home-financing, on rent-like monthly payments that bring free-and-clear home-ownership.
